JUPITER'S

MOONS

Apr 17, 1610 - Aug 1610

Henry Hudson and 22 men sailed the 55-ton bluff-bowed bark "DISCOVERY" out of Saint Katherine's Pool on his fourth voyage. He was in the employ of a syndicate of wealthy Englishmen headed by Sir Thomas Smith, Sir Dudley Digges and Master John Wolstenholme. Twenty miles down the Thames, he touched at Gravesend and picked up a young protégé of his named Henry Greene (a wealthy, bright & all around rogue). Robert Tent was the mate. Carpenter - Philip Stoffe. A young scholar Thomas Weddow signed on as a passenger.

Henry's son John was also aboard.

He sailed to Iceland, past Greenland to the entrance to Hudson Straits. Monday 9 seeing ice buffeted the DISCOVERY. He took his ship south to UAGAVA BAY where he got stuck in a crosy quilt of ice. The crew began to grumble little by little they worked the ship out of water and now set course north west starving, the Jamestown colony boarded ships to abandon the town. As they were sailing away a supply ship arrived. The colonists returned & the colony endured to become Virginia's first capital

Aug 3, 1610 - Sept 1610

Henry Hudson groped his way between 2 scored, massive headlands (He named them Cape Diggs & Cape Walsenholme) and entered the vast reservoir of Hudson Bay.

Sept 16/0 - Nov 1

Henry Hudson had entered Hudson Bay's southern pocket, (now known as James Bay) (bumpy; muddy; and wind-whipped).

The note treated him about progress and Henry stripped him of his rank; replaced by Robert Aylot. He zigzagged back and forth across James Bay even after the 1st winter storms came & went.

Nov 1, 1610

Both Henry Hudson and his crew
..gave in to the inevitable and hauled their ship aground in southeastern James Bay.

By 11/10/1610 the Discovery was frozen in for the winter. Hudson ordered the Carpenter to build a house on shore. Stoffe told him it was too late in the year. Hudson threatened to have Stoffe hung. Scrambling

Staffe built the house.

John Williams, the gunner died. There was a fight over the effort particularly the gunners the cold "lamed" most of the crew. It was scurvy. Swollen limbs, pulpy gums, unhealing sores. Tried to dig lichen under the snow. It was useless.
